THRIP

This new pest has been a serious menace to Glad Growers, but the past season in this locality has proven decisively that it can be controlled.

The adult Thrip is a small black fly about one-sixteenth-inch in length; the young are orange color.

They winter over on the bulbs in storage, and increase with the growth of the plant if they are alive on the bulb when planted, destroying the vitality of the plant and it will not blossom.

One must be sure not to plant infested bulbs. To prevent Thrip on the bulbs sprinkle the bulbs with Napthalene Flakes, about 1 ounce to 100 bulbs and allow this to stay about one month, the bulbs being enclosed in boxes or paper bags.

As the life cycle of the Thrip is about 24 days this will destroy the living insects and their eggs.

As a further precaution we always sterilize the bulbs just before planting by soaking the bulbs for 2 hours in a 1 to 1000 solution of Bi-chloride of Mercury (Corrosive Sublimate). One ounce of powdered bichloride to eight gallons of water, or one tablet to 1 pint of water makes the 1 to 1000 solution. This solution must not be used in a metal container; use a wooden tub or crock.

Put the bulbs in cloth bags, soak them in the solution and plant immediately while wet. This treatment will destroy all Thrip and their eggs, as well as the spores of Scab and Dry Rot which sometimes attack bulbs.

When the plants are about six inches high begin Spraying with any good insecticide.

We used the past season a Solution of Fish Oil Soap with 1 1/2 teaspoons of "Black Leaf" 40 per gallon, which certainly is efficient.

Your State Agricultural Station will supply formulas for Spraying. The important point in Spraying seems to be to get an early start and not wait until the plants are badly infested.

We had good Glads this year by using precautions as stated, and feel assured that Thrip can be controlled. We proved it. This old Earth of ours has not had a good soaking in our Section for the past three seasons, (rain-fall being about 60% of normal) until this Fall, and as Thrip and in fact all Insects thrive on Dry conditions, I believe we will find the 1933 season near normal as regards Thrip.

GLADIOLUS BULBLETS—The less expensive bulblets are sold in packages, the number of bulblets in each package varies with cost of the Variety.

BARGAINS—If you can use bulbs in larger quantities than are listed, please write for a quotation on what you need. I am in a position to quote most attractive prices on several varieties.

MIXTURES—For those who do not care to grow named varieties, but want them just for cut flowers, we can make up a mixture of named varieties (not named) and will gladly put in the colors you wish to predominate. These mixtures contain bulbs from the best named varieties, and will surely give satisfaction—

100 Large Bulbs, $3.00. 100 Medium Bulbs, $2.00.
